

New for Summer 2012 from Sean Kingston Publishing

20% DISCOUNT OFFER

Contesting the State The Dynamics of Resistance and Control

Edited by Angela Hobart and Bruce Kapferer

Hardback ISBN: 978-1-907774-13-3

Price: £59.99, $119.99,

Offer Price: £47.99/US$95.99

The state is frequently conceived as a universal, although one apparently extraordinarily difficult to define. It often appears in academic discourse and, especially, in the popular imagination as an abstraction, usually nebulous, grasped as pervasive - a spectre to be feared. In this book, distinguished scholars from around the world take issue with this purported universality, exploring alternative imaginings of the state, of power and of global processes at the margins.

Taking an anthropological perspective based in diverse ethnographic contexts outside Europe and North America, if not beyond their controlling influence in globalizing realities, this volume reveals different complexes of power; as well as processes that are external to power and often against it (contra Foucault, and as Pierre Clastres has famously argued).

The authors stress not only the different structures of institutional power, but also the persistence or transmutation of local kinds of power and their relevant cosmologies into contemporary globalized settings. They find innovative kinds of modernity, reconfigurations that have effects that cannot be reduced to over-generalized and often intensely Eurocentric concepts of power and the kinds of subjectivities realized by them. In this, the volume opens up the diversity of experiences of the state and offers new directions for its study.

Editors

Angela Hobart is Director of the Centro Incontri Umani, Ascona, Switzerland, and a Research Fellow, Medical Anthropology Department, University College London, UK.

Bruce Kapferer is Professor in the Department of Social Anthropology at Bergen University, Norway, Adjunct Professor at James Cook University, Australia and Honorary Professor at University College London, UK.

Contributors

Hosham Dawod, T.M.S. Evans, Jonathan Friedman, Laurie Kane Hart, Angela Hobart, Bruce Kapferer, Joanna Overing, Bal Gopal Shrestha, Christopher C. Taylor, Roshan de Silva Wijeyeratne.

Contents

Acknowledgements; Contributors; Introduction – Forces in the production of the state Chapter 1 – The phenomenology of a stateless society: Non-dualism, identity and hierarchical anarchy among the Nuer; Chapter 2 – Society against the tyrant: Power, violence and the poetics of an Amazonian egalitarianism; Chapter 3 – Tribalism and power in Iraq: Saddam Hussein's 'house'; Chapter 4 – An altered state?: Continuity, change and cosmology in Rwandan notions of the state Chapter 5 – Post-war realities in Sri Lanka: From the crime of war to the crime of peace in Sri Lanka?; Chapter 6 – The Hindu epics, theatre and the Indonesian state: Violence and cosmic regeneration - a Balinese perspective; Chapter 7 – The death of divine kingship in Nepal: Nepal's move from autocratic monarchy to fragile republican state; Chapter 8 – Expectations of the state: An exile returns to his country - Laurie Kane Hart; Chapter 9 – Diametric to concentric dualism: Cosmopolitan intellectuals and the re-configuration of the state; Index.

To receive your 20% discount, simply email orders@seankingston.co.uk with offer code CIU08